Innovation in Supporting Aging Adults with Developmental Disabilities

The Association on Aging with Developmental Disabilities (AADD) has received the award of the Innovation in Supporting Aging Adults with Developmental Disabilities project.

This project, funded by the Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council (MODDC), will provide a new innovative strategy to support aging adults with developmental disabilities (DD) and their caregivers. In this project, AADD will be collaborating with other organizations to create, implement, and evaluate a Family Care at Home (FCH) curriculum. This curriculum will be offered to people with developmental disabilities, living at home, in a mutual care-giving arrangement with an aging loved one.

The long-term goal of this project is to increase the ability of both family members to support each other and prolong the mutual caregivers' abilities to age-in-place in the family home.
